

*A Seasons
Kiwi and Polynesian Funeral.
Incomparable.*

*We will take you home...
or bring tradition to you.*

Seasons Funerals works hard to honour cultural and religious funeral traditions when putting loved ones to rest, including those of the Maori and Polynesian communities.

Whether you are from New Zealand, Samoa, Tonga, Fiji or Cook Islands, in your time of need you can be assured that your loved ones will be given a traditional service.

Repatriation

Arranging for loved ones to be put to rest on home soil is a complicated process which involves a great deal of paperwork, obtaining a number of permits and making sure that your loved one is prepared in line with international requirements.

Seasons will liaise with the relevant organisations and consulates in Perth to obtain all the required paperwork, permits and authorisation to fly your loved ones home. We will also arrange a funeral service or tangihanga for relatives in Australia before repatriation if requested.

Dedicated Staff

Seasons Funerals employs staff with specialised knowledge, understanding and experience of a wide range of cultures. We understand and respect the faith, beliefs, practices and protocols of all Kiwi and Polynesian communities.

Rebecca Sheridan specialises in the Maori and Polynesian communities due to her own family and social connections. She is an enthusiastic supporter of all Polynesian cultural events, as well as being heavily involved in the Rugby League community.

Rebecca Sheridan
Maori and Polynesian Funeral Director
08 9436 7611 www.seasons.com.au

Originally from Christchurch, Tammy Kyle moved from Kaikoura to Perth with her husband and children and is active in the rugby and basketball communities here. Tammy is passionate about giving back to her Maori heritage and honouring the cultural wishes of those so far away from home.

Tammy Kyle
Maori and Polynesian Funeral Director
08 9436 7611 www.seasons.com.au